THE COTTON MARKET WAS strong again; the telegraphic reports repeated the quotations of the day before, but they were firm. The weather in the morning was very gloomy, with rain, and buyers did but very little, but in the afternoon their operations became active, and 2800 bales changed hands. Holders were very firm at the quotations of the day before, and so remained at the close. The New York Bulletin of Wednesday reported: 'For 'spot' cotton there was a very fair demand and a firm market, with another advance of ic per pound on quotations. The call was in the main from exporters, who, with freight accommodation and exchange in fairly favorable condition, and the cable advices encouraging, seemed willing to operate on a basis of about ruling rates. On home account, buyers were operating to some extent, but displayed a little caution, and were evidently quite particular both as to cost and quality, and not inclined to handle a quantity in ex-cess of ability to put to early use. On future deliveries two market that been steady and advancing pretty much all day. The feeling at the opening was a lift's buoyant, and with the stimulus of the encouraging cable accounts from Liverpool, both public and private, and the smaller estimates on receipts, there was not much difficulty in obtaining higher figures. During the middle of the day there was a little wavering, but the market qu'ckly recovered its steadiness on all months. In a word, the market was evidently ripe for an advance, and only required the supporting inflaences named to work to a higher level. The improvement was about 8.32c per pound, and at this the market c osed firm." Quotations at the Memphia cotton exchange were as fol-
